Diversions, dead ends and blind alleys: our route to open access nirvana!

Image credit: http://www.freeimages.com/photo/1352479
Hello, come in, we're open!

Internet Archaeology has been publishing on the web since 1996 and is the premier e-journal for archaeology. Internet Archaeology is an open access, independent, not-for-profit journal. It publishes quality academic content and explores the potential of electronic publication through the inclusion of video, audio, searchable data sets, full-colour images, visualisations, animations and interactive mapping. Internet Archaeology is international in scope, a true journal without borders, and all content is peer-reviewed. Internet Archaeology is hosted by the Department of Archaeology at the University of York and digitally archived by the Archaeology Data Service.
ALTAVISTA
AltaVista gives you access to the largest Web index: 30 million pages found on 275,600 servers, and four million articles from 14,000 Usenet news groups. It is accessed over 20 million times per weekday.

NEWS FROM ALTAVISTA
AltaVista Search is your favorite search service! Over 2.5 billion hits to date, and a top ten rating from 100 Hot Web Sites.
Mile High Tower rises in Cyberspace. AltaVista Forum is open for business!

POWERED BY DIGITAL UNIX, DIGITAL ALPHA AND ALTAVISTA SEARCH SOFTWARE

Copyright © 1996 Digital Equipment Corporation. All rights reserved.

Copyright © 1996 Digital Equipment Corporation. All rights reserved.
Welcome to SCROLLS FROM THE DEAD SEA
The Ancient Library of Qumran and Modern Scholarship

The exhibition brings to life the scrolls of ancient Judaism and the people who were their scribes. A walk through the historical context of the Dead Sea Scrolls will help you understand the importance of these scrolls.

The exhibition is divided into five main parts:
1. Introduction - The Dead Sea Scrolls
2. The Dead Sea Scrolls
3. The Scrolls in Context
4. The Scrolls in Question
5. The Scrolls in Time

You may view the exhibit by selecting:
- Online of Observe
- Online of Observe

More information about the exhibit can be found at:
http://www.si.edu/

If this server is busy, you may want to visit the Smithsonian mirror site in California.

Internet Archaeology

ISSN 1363-5387

Journal Issue One

Internet Archaeology aims to become one of the world's archaeological journals of record and we have set ourselves the task of publishing papers of high academic standing which also utilise to the full the potential of electronic publication. We aim to present the results of archaeological research in a readable manner and yet make it possible for readers to explore the data upon which conclusions are based.

Internet Archaeology will publish the results of archaeological research, including excavation reports (text, photographs, data, drawings, reconstruction diagrams, interpretations), analyses of large data sets along with the data itself, visualisations, programs used to analyse data, and applications of information technology.

- Home Pages (News, Background, Structure, Forthcoming Papers, Paper Proposals, etc)
- Journal Issue 1 and subscribe
- Visit Antiquity's web pages
- Search the IA Web pages. You are able to search the journal's pages, but will need to be a registered user to view text within the articles of Issue 1. The journal is currently free.
- Archaeology Data Service

The Internet Archaeology consortium consists of the British Academy, The Council for British Archaeology and the Universities of Durham, Glasgow, Oxford, Southampton and York. The Journal is hosted on behalf of the consortium by the Department of Archaeology at the University of York. Managing Editor: Alan Vince.
Original eLib bid

“The intention is that the production and dissemination of the journal will be network-based, ultimately available to all via the Internet.”

“The focus will be on revenue stream diversity to ensure the maximum flexibility ... and provide a sustainable long-term revenue stream for the journal.”
Sustainability 3yrs
"Publication subventions are likely to provide the life-blood of the journal" http://intarch.ac.uk/about/ann~rep3.html
Welcome to...

internet archaeology

ISSN 1363-5387   URL: http://intarch.ac.uk

The first fully refereed e-journal for archaeology

Select an issue to view the lists of contents

1  2  3  4  5  6  7

register  search  comments

Please note: you need to register as a user to access the full text of the articles, but registration and access are free.

About Internet Archaeology

New!  INTERNET ARCHAEOLOGY AND RAE 2001!

Thinking of submitting an article? Visit our new and updated Guidelines for Authors.
Subscriptions (2000-2004)

• April 2000. UK HE institutions charged
• August 2001. All other / overseas institutions
• December 2001. Individual subscriptions
Internet Archaeology is a not-for-profit academic electronic journal, published by the Council for British Archaeology and hosted by the Department of Archaeology at the University of York. Internet Archaeology publishes an international range of research articles of a high academic standing which also try to utilise the potential of electronic publication. Articles regularly contain fully searchable databases to analyse online; full-colour, interactive images, plans and sections; video footage; virtual reality models and give access to related digital archive material.

"...for anyone studying or working (or wishing to publish) in the subject, this is an important online resource" New Scientist

New! Internet Archaeology now has a newsfeed which you can incorporate into your webpages or add to your desktop newsfeed display.
JISC support

- Tapering funding, purchasing access for all visits from .ac.uk domains
- "IA is trying to move towards open access and so we need more than ever to find alternative ways to fund the production of articles, so if some funding could be sought to set against our costs, that would be most helpful."
INTERNET ARCHAEOLOGY is the first fully refereed e-journal for archaeology and publishes articles of a high academic standing which utilise the potential of electronic publication. INTERNET ARCHAEOLOGY is published by the Council for British Archaeology and hosted by the Department of Archaeology at the University of York.

INTERNET ARCHAEOLOGY has been publishing on the web since 1996 and provides new avenues to present and engage with archaeological research. International in scope, all journal content is subject to rigorous peer-review. Articles make use of the huge potential of internet publication to present archaeological research in unique and exciting ways, such as full colour images, photographs, searchable data sets, visualisations and interactive mapping.
Hybrid phase

- Issue 1, editorials and review articles remained open access
- 2009 - 1\textsuperscript{st} APC-paid article (issue 27)
- Most subsequent issues have at least one OA article
- APCs from VU Amsterdam, EH, Dept Archaeology at York, University of Sydney, Historic Scotland, University of Michigan, Bournemouth University, University of Cambridge, European Social Fund and the state budget of the Czech Republic, University of Kiel
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>October 2011</td>
<td>(Open Access week)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 2012</td>
<td>(Finch report published)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 2013</td>
<td>CC-BY licence</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Issues 2-21 OA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 2014</td>
<td>Issues 22-23 added</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 2014</td>
<td>Approach JISC</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May 2014</td>
<td>Decision taken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 2014</td>
<td>Open access</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Alternatives (where we didn’t go)

Membership models e.g. PeerJ model. Pre-paid deals

“Freemium” model. Free online, pay for added functionality

External Subsidies/Sponsors e.g. one-time costs that attend the transformation to OA http://www.sparc.arl.org/resources/papers-guides/oa-income-models

Image credit: http://www.freeimages.com/photo/1429631
Opening up

October 2011  (Open Access week)
June 2012    (Finch report published)

January 2013  CC-BY licence
              Issues 2-21 OA

January 2014  Issues 22-23 added
              (Tipping point)

April 2014    Approach JISC
May 2014      Decision taken
September 2014 Open access
Hello, come in, we're open!

Internet Archaeology has been publishing on the web since 1996 and is the premier e-journal for archaeology. Internet Archaeology is an open access, independent, not-for-profit journal. It publishes quality academic content and explores the potential of electronic publication through the inclusion of video, audio, searchable data sets, full-colour images, visualisations, animations and interactive mapping. Internet Archaeology is international in scope, a true journal without borders, and all content is peer-reviewed. Internet Archaeology is hosted by the Department of Archaeology at the University of York and digitally archived by the Archaeology Data Service.
Still looking at...

Donations stream

Banding APCs

Waivers
Income stream: still a bit of a mix

OA Membership
APCs
Project income
Advertising
Data papers
Themed/Sponsored issues
Conclusions

Not alone

OA in stages

Transparency in costs

Flexibility

http://intarch.ac.uk

editor@intarch.ac.uk

judith.winters@york.ac.uk

@IntarchEditor

www.facebook.com/internet.archaeology

+JudithWinters